A FIELD OFFICER'S GOLD MEDAL

for

BARROSA, MDCCCXI.,

awarded to

Major ALEXANDER DUNCAN, R.A.

 From the Robert Day collection.

Lieut.-Colonel Alexander Duncan served as a subaltern at the defence of Toulon 1793; and in Nelson's famous brigade at the capture of Bastia and Calvi, in Corsica, 1794. As a Captain he served in Egypt in 1801; and the retreat of the French at Alexandria was hastened by the fire of a 24-pr., which he levelled with such admirable precision that the first three shots struck down the enemy in ranks, and by the time the fourth was fired they were beyond range.

As Major and Lieut.-Colonel he commanded the R.A. during the defence of Cadiz in 1810–11–12, at the battle of Barrosa (where the R.A. covered themselves with glory), and at Seville, where this gallant officer was killed by the explosion of a powder mill which had been taken from the French.

 Son of John Garland, of Dorchester. Was desperately wounded at Waterloo. After the battle he was carried to Brussels, and after months of suffering was able to return to Dorchester. He was not then expected to recover, and by some error his death was reported in the papers in the autumn of 1816. Here is the first obituary notice in the "Gentleman's Magazine": "At his father's, Dorchester, Capt. John Garland, 73rd Foot. He was in most of the Peninsular battles, and was desperately wounded at Waterloo at the close of the action, only two men of his company being then left, and was confined at Brussels until his recent return to England." But John Garland did not die in 1816, and lived to become a bt. maj. on unattached list in 1825, and a bt. lt.-col. in 1838. His second obituary notice is given in the "Annual Register" for 1851: "Jan. 17. At Lille, Lt.-Col. John Garland, K.H., late of Quatre Bras Cottage, Dorchester, who was severely wounded at Waterloo."
